SILENT ON SILVER.

The Ohio Republican state convention nominated Governor McKinley for re-election and adopted a platform. The platform indorses the national Republican platform of 1892, that on which Harrison was defeated, and the administration of Harrison. It favors protection and reciprocity, that is high tariff and free trade, and the enactment of laws to restrict immigration. It condemns the policy of the present administration on the pension question and denounces the avowed purpose of the Democrats to repeal the tax of 10 per cent on state banks, but is silent on the silver question.

The devotion of the Republican party, and it looks as if that the Democratic party equalled it, to the money power is remarkable. With banks closing their doors daily, business houses suspending or going into the hands of a receiver, the gold reserve entrenched upon to supply the demand for that metal in Europe and the people of the whole country complaining of the scarcity of money, an intelligent body of men meet in convention and adopt resolutions declaring the policy of the party which they hope to see control the affairs of the nation and say never a word on a question which is agitating the country more than all other issues combined.

The nominee of the convention for governor, who, if elected, will be the logical candidate of his party for president, delivers an elaborate and doubtless well-considered speech in which he merely alludes to the financial question, and with assumed earnestness tells the hearers that the only direction to look for relief in the present crisis is to the Republican party, though the seat which a president elected by that party occupied for four years is scarcely yet cold, and the only great objection to his successor is that he stubbornly adheres to the financial policy of his predecessor.

Will intelligent people permit themselves to be deceived by such political jugglery? Not an act passed under Harrison's administration has been repealed and no change has been made in the financial policy of his administration, yet Major McKinley, whose ambition is to be "heir apparent" to the presidency, tells us that the only hope of relief lies in the success of the party which enacted those laws and inaugurated the present financial policy of the government. Only the most bigoted partisans, those who accept without question the declarations of the high priests of the party with which they have affiliated, can be misled by such fallacious reasoning.

SILVER AND PARTISANSHIP.

In a recent address, Hon. J. B. Belford, ex-congressman from Colorado, scored Republicans and Democrats severely for their devotion to the money power. A Republican newspaper applies Judge Belford's criticism exclusively to President Cleveland, whereupon the Denver News respectfully inquires why the distinction was made? as the remarks of Judge Belford applied equally to Harrison and Cleveland, there being no difference between the financial—or silver—policy of the two administrations.

In proof of this the News submits the following facts:

"President Harrison did his utmost to repeal the Sherman law. President Cleveland is doing the same.

"President Harrison ordered silver coinage under the act of July, 1890, to cease on July 1, 1891. President Cleveland declines to resume it, and orders a mint closed.

"President Harrison ordered the treasury notes issued in payment of silver bullion, redeemable in either gold or silver, to be redeemed in gold only. President Cleveland is pursuing the same course."

As the policy of President Cleveland is merely a continuation of the policy of President Harrison, how can a newspaper or an individual be honest in endorsing one president and denouncing the other? Secretary Foster under Harrison, redeemed government obligations payable in gold or silver exclusively with gold. Secretary Carlisle under Cleveland is doing exactly the same as Foster. Shall we condemn the one because he is a Republican and endorse the other because he calls himself a Democrat?

Those who believe in restoring silver to its old standard as a money metal, no matter what party they have heretofore affiliated with, should now combine and overcome the goldbugs. Whether those goldbugs call themselves Democrats or Republicans is immaterial. They are enemies of the state as they operate against its chief industry, and enemies of the nation because their policy means contraction of the currency in the interest of the money lenders of New York and Europe.

It is reported that a dozen tariff bills are being prepared by Congressmen for introduction at the extra session of congress. All those bills will will be referred to the ways and means committee, which, it is hoped, will be able to formulate an equitable tariff measure, which will be fair to all, out of the dozen.

EVANS AND SONTAG.

The Bandits Surrounded by an Armed Posse of 100 Men.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

VISALIA, Cal., June 8.—Last night Sheriff Kay received information that Evans and Sontag, the fugitive highwaymen, were in town, but he did not make a night attack, fearing a repetition of the last fiasco. At 12:15 to-day he received what he considered reliable information that the men were at Evans' house. A posse of 100 men was organized. The house was surrounded and the sheriff, accompanied by a nephew of Evans, went to the house, but the men were not found. The home of Mrs. Byrd, Evans' mother-in-law, was also visited, but the desperadoes were not there. Sheriff Kay is satisfied that the bandits have left, though confident they were there last night, as the information is regarded as reliable. The posse returned to town at 5 o'clock this afternoon all discouraged. Many people believe the bandits are still in town, and Evans' house is guarded to-night, and the roads leading to the mountains are lined with men. This evening Mrs. Evans and daughter Eva called at the sheriff's office and got a 32-calibre gun belonging to them. Driving up the main street they purchased cartridges at a gun store. The fact caused great excitement among the citizens. After a majority of the men had left Mrs. Byrd found the gun standing against the fence, and picking it up she said: "Will Smith brought this. I let it go."

Mrs. Byrd's house has two stories, and all the doors and windows were open when the sheriff visited it except one window up stairs in which the curtains were down. Kay did not enter the house, but stopped on the porch and talked. Mrs. Evans objected to his entering her house, but Kay was satisfied from the tone of the conversation and the abandon of the folks that the men were not there.

VISALIA, June 8 (4 P. M.).—Evans and Sontag are in Evans' house here, surrounded by 100 men. Efforts are being made to get the family out of the house, but no one seems disposed to volunteer to enter.

A Loafer's Villainous Act.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—A desperate shooting affray occurred here yesterday at the grading camp of Crape and Schroder in the outskirts of the city, which may result in the death of C. A. J. Crape. Crape had noticed a man loafing about the camp interfering with the workmen, and yesterday warned him to keep away, saying he wanted no loafers about the premises. The fellow left, but soon returned with a revolver, which he presented at the head of the contractor, demanding that Crape take back the names which he had called him. Crape wrenched the revolver from the desperado's hands and kicked him out of the camp. The deperado soon returned with a shotgun, and sneaking up behind Crape fired two charges of buckshot into the latter's back. Physicians think the wounds will prove fatal.

The man who did the shooting is still at large, but the police have his description and will doubtless discover his hiding place.

Senator Manderson's Financial Views.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Senator Manderson, president pro tem of the last senate, said to-day that he did not believe the financial situation to be nearly as bad as it looked.

"We are," he said, "more frightened than hurt; that is, there is no foundation for as much alarm as is felt."

Speaking of the prospects of repealing the Sherman law, he said:

"The Sherman law cannot be repealed by the next congress unless substituted by the free coinage of silver in some form. They may put more silver in the dollar, but free coinage will be insisted upon as a condition to repeal the Sherman law."

CHICAGO, June 8.—No woman was ever honored with a grander greeting or more cordial welcome than that accorded Maria Eualie, infanta of Spain, upon her arrival at the world's Columbian exposition to-day. No less than 150,000 people were on the grounds, and this mighty host were representatives of every nation and every people from the Arctic regions to the equator, and all did homage to the little woman from Spain, and from the time of her arrival until she left the white city this democratic member of Spain's royal house showed by her every act that she fully appreciated the honors showered upon her.

The Borden Trial.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 8.—An immense crowd was present at the Borden trial to-day. The witnesses examined were the family physician, Dr. Bowen, Bridget Sullivan, Mrs. Churchill, Alice Russell, the prisoner's friend, John Cunningham and the policeman who was the first on the ground. While the examination of the latter witness was going on the prosecution sprung a surprise that caused the heavy, dull features of the defendant to grow ashy white. It was a handkerchief, dark and dirty and half destroyed. It looks as if an attempt had been made to burn it. The examination of the officer developed the fact that the handkerchief was found a little away from Mrs. Borden's body, and that it was covered with blood. When this fact was brought out the prisoner looked as if she was about to collapse. On the other hand, the point for the defense was made that no blood stains were found on any dresses as claimed by the prosecution. The court adjourned.

A Diabolical Soup Bone.

"Yes," meditatively said the bachelor to the other man, "I would have been a prosy old married man like you by this time if it had not been for the meddlesome intervention of a soup bone. Some months ago I was very much impressed with a little typewriter girl in our office. She was bright, pretty, had a dainty figure and wore such neat toilets that half the men in the place were more or less daft about her. I was too bashful to ask her if I might call on her, and one night over my late cigar I evolved a business method of settling my fate. I would go early to the office next morning—she was usually the first clerk down—I would send the porter out upon an errand and then dictate a letter to her asking her to marry me. Wasn't that a brilliant scheme? But she was not there and did not come in until 9 o'clock.

"Later in the day I overheard her tell another girl what had detained her. The cook at her boarding house had gone out to buy meat for breakfast. She entered the butcher shop just as the butcher in anger threw a soup bone at his assistant. The cook intercepted the soup bone, was felled insensible, and being unknown to the butcher was carried off to the hospital. The boarders waited for their breakfast, and my romantic intentions were chilled beyond resuscitation. So here I am, a dismal bachelor, the victim of a contemptible, mean, little 5-cent soup bone."—Indianapolis Journal.

Perpetuation of Physical Defects.

Diseases of malnutrition, such as gout, scrofula, cancer and tuberculosis, require several generations for their full evolution, and this evolution may be retarded or even wholly arrested by intermarriage with healthy persons of another nonrelated family. Acquired constitutional taints and abnormal habits, as alcoholism, kleptomania, when once firmly rooted in an individual organism tend to propagate themselves like family features and become hereditary for several generations, even when the original factors have ceased to act. Thus the acquired habit of the father may become a natural feature in his son or daughter, just as the puppies of a well trained pointer or setter require but very little training to "point" or "set."

Deformities, superfluous digits or toes and malformations in general may be caused by accident to the mother, by powerful mental impressions arresting or altering the development of the unborn child, and the child born with any of these defects may become the parent or grandparent of an infant having an exactly similar abnormality.—Homœopathic Review.

PARBLEU!

"What, pretty!—she? With that brown skin
And hair pale brown? the cheek too thin;
Gray eyes—rare eyes? Well; have it so—
That's one good point; but pretty—no:
And nine in ten would pass her by."
"Faith, man, I'd be the tenth," quoth I.

"Clever? not she! Do what you list
She's the dull dog that licks your fist:
Or only clever to divine
A man's least ill by the least sign—
Like nature, soothe, one knows not why."
"Here's genius past all wit," quoth I.

"But good? Parbleu! by those calm looks
She's learned in hymns and cookery books—
Made for a spinster, whose poor pains
Will swell the great world's general gains,
Uncounted, as the years run by."
"Never, if love wins love!" thought I.
—Dora R. Goodale in Homemaker

An Idyl of the Sunshine.

The girl was fair. Soft blue her eyes as the skies, and pink and white her cheeks as the mountain peaks at sunrise, and golden light her hair as the moonlight air.

Ah, she was very fair.

Uncrowned save by her tossing tresses, she stood facing the east, and the sun came and kissed her.

Kissed her long and lovingly.

Her mother saw her there and called to her.

"Let me linger here, dear mother," pleaded the fair being. "The air is so sweet, the fragrance of the flowers so rich. The skies above me are so tenderly blue, and, mother dear, I feel as if I were a little queen standing here in the glorious reign of the sun."

The mother appeared at the door.

"Fudge!" she exclaimed. "You ought to have sense enough to come in out of that sort of a reign. Don't you know you'll be freckled worse than a turkey egg?"

And a heavy black cloud rose up and swiped the sun across the face.—Detroit Free Press.

Children Over Six Hundred Years Ago.

Somebody has unearthed a book written by Bartholomew Anglicus about 1260, of which one of the most amusing chapters is on the children of his day. Of these he writes: "They dread no perils more than beating with a rod, and they love an apple more than gold and make more sorrow and woe for the loss of an apple than for the loss of a heritage. They desire all that they see and pray and ask with voice and with hand. They keep no counsel, but they tell all that they hear and see. Suddenly they laugh, and suddenly they weep. Always they cry and jangle and jape; that unneth they be still while they sleep. When they be washed of filth, anon they defile themselves again. When their mother washeth and combeth them, they kick and sprawl and put with feet and with hands, and withstand with all their might." All of which sounds very modern and up to date.

The Educated Hoosier Cockroach.

While a gentleman was at his office desk a day or two ago, one of these disreputable roaches ran across the paper on which he was writing. He flipped it against the wall with his finger, and it bounded back on the desk, lighting upon its back. It remained motionless for some time until it recovered from the shock and then endeavored to get upon its feet again, but in vain. Smaller roaches passed by their prostrate brother, evidently without noticing it, but a larger one came along pretty soon, stopped, went over to the one that lay upon its back, straddled across it, and giving it a quick jerk with its forelegs landed it deftly upon its feet, and the two disappeared over the edge of the desk.—Indianapolis News.

A Hopeless Case.

Lady—What is the matter with my husband?

Doctor—I cannot be sure yet. Have you noticed him doing anything unusual lately?

"Let me see. Well, last evening instead of lighting his cigar the moment he left the table, he walked into the library and put on his smoking jacket, smoking cap and slippers before beginning to smoke."

"Hum! My, my!"

"And later on, when he wrote a letter, he wiped the pen on a penwiper."

"Horrors! It's paresis!"—New York Weekly.

Arc Versus Incandescent Lamps.

Some interesting tests have been recently made to decide the relative illuminating power of the arc and the incandescent lamp. One company which has 120 incandescent lamps from 8 candle power to 500 candle power and six arc lamps of 2,000 nominal candle power on its extensive premises finds that each arc lamp tested illuminates an area of 8,000 square yards and absorbs one horsepower, and that each 300 candle power incandescent lamp illuminates an area of 200 yards and absorbs one horsepower. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"August Flower"

Mrs. Sarah M. Black of Seneca, Mo., during the past two years has been affected with Neuralgia of the Head, Stomach and Womb, and writes: "My food did not seem to strengthen me at all and my appetite was very variable. My face was yellow, my head dull, and I had such pains in my left side. In the morning when I got up I would have a flow of mucus in the mouth, and a bad, bitter taste. Sometimes my breath became short, and I had such queer, tumbling, palpitating sensations around the heart. I ached all day under the shoulder blades, in the left side, and down the back of my limbs. It seemed to be worse in the wet, cold weather of Winter and Spring; and whenever the spells came on, my feet and hands would turn cold, and I could get no sleep at all. I tried everywhere, and got no relief before using August Flower Then the change came. It has done me a wonderful deal of good during the time I have taken it and is working a complete cure." ④

A Long Dive.

London's latest thrill is derived from the feat of a man who dives down 95 feet from the roof of the Westminster aquarium into a narrow and comparatively shallow tank of water set in the floor of the building. The exploit calls for an astounding combination of nerve and skill and is far more noteworthy than any of the bridge jumping acts which have been so tiresomely frequent of late years.

The diver is Thomas Burns, who has acquired considerable notoriety as a diver from bridges and as an expert swimmer and not a little fame from his having saved no fewer than 32 lives during his career. He is a sturdily built man, some 26 years of age. He has frequently dived from bridges over 100 feet high into rivers, but his dive at the aquarium is a very different affair. He stands on a tiny platform suspended among the iron girders of the roof, 95 feet above the floor, and sees below him, instead of a broad, deep river, a mass of flaring, bewildering lights, a sea of upturned faces, and in the wooden floor of the stage what seems from that height to be a mere slot, the tank in which he must surely land.

The tank is 18 feet long, 8 feet wide and 7 feet deep. The diver actually dives, takes a header and does not drop feet foremost, after the manner of the bridge jumpers. The marvelous precision required to land in the tank is easily appreciable, as is also the fate that would befall him should he miss his mark.—New York Sun.

A Volcano In Honolulu.

The floor of Kilauea is at certain periods subject to overflow by floods of fresh lava from Halemauman, which will probably destroy large sections of the aforesaid trail, necessitating much labor in renewing it. This can hardly occur under two years from now, as it will probably take that length of time for the level of the molten lake to work up the 200 feet or more necessary to enable it to discharge itself on the main floor. During the last period of overflow, in 1889–90, many thousands of acres of the main floor in Kilauea received fresh coatings of lava. In the immediate vicinity of Halemauman pit the leavings were piled to a thickness of from 20 to 50 feet.

Meantime the lake, 800 feet in diameter, is overflowing every few days upon the lava floor around it, which is perhaps 250 feet lower than the brink of the circular pit, which is 2,400 feet in diameter The American minister, Mr. Stevens, who was there recently, counted 12 fire fountains playing in the lake at one time. In April last we measured the largest fountains with an instrument. The Bellow, pulsating thrice a minute, was 50 feet in diameter and 30 feet high. Its action was steady and incessant during the week we were there. Other fountains were more furious, but intermittent. On the whole, the present aspect of the volcano is unusually satisfactory for observation by visitors.—Honolulu Friend.

Japan In Need of Rejapanning.

It seems that the Japanese are growing weary of barbarians and their barbarous ways. For 250 years no European save an English sailor and a tiny Dutch colony on an island desecrated their shores. Then came Commodore Perry unloading models of railways and other civilized appliances at Yokohama, with the notice that he would return in six months to see how they liked them, and that if they were unappreciative he would blow Japan out of the water. And then for 30 years the Japanese denationalized themselves with a vengeance, even to the point of top hats and a house of commons.

But now because a native pilot has brought an English steamer into collision with a Japanese cruiser the mikado is petitioned to expel every Englishman from the country. We should not be sorry if the mikado did so and included other Europeans in the expulsion. The Japanese need a rest to get themselves rejapanned. The country and its people form, as it were, one of the national treasures of the world and should be carefully preserved and "restored." Sir John Lubbock and his ancient monuments society should internationalize themselves and see to it.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Snake Laboratory Founded.

An enlightened Bengali, Babu Govind Chandra Laha, has contributed 15,000 rupees toward the expenses of the proposed snake laboratory at Calcutta. We may expect, therefore, that the institution will soon be in full working order. Two main lines of research will be followed in the laboratory. So called cures for snake bites will be tested under strictly scientific conditions, and the properties of the snake poison as such will be investigated. The laboratory will be the only institution of its kind in the world, and the committee of the Calcutta zoological gardens, which has taken the matter in hand, expects that it will be largely resorted to by the scientific inquirers who visit India during the cold weather.—London Nature.

Her Weakness Is Kissing Young Men.

"Clara the Hugger," or Clara Sherman, was before Justice Blume of Chicago Thursday morning to explain why she persists in embracing every young man she meets. While Policeman Fitzgerald was traveling his beat he was seized around the neck by a young woman. She made every effort to draw the officer's face toward hers, but he managed to free himself from her. Later he saw the same woman hugging a young man. He placed her under arrest. When arraigned in court, she said that whenever she meets a young man with a handsome face she cannot resist the temptation to kiss him. Justice Blume fined her $20.

The Goat to Have His Day.

The most popular place in New York if the cholera comes, should be Shanty town, and the proudest animal on the island will be the goat, for Dr. Kiemperer of Berlin, after going over the subject of securing immunity against cholera, and after trying all methods of vaccination, including the swallowing of a pint of cholera bouillon, finds that the milk of an immunized goat does the work best and most easily. The price of goats has been $5 and upward. When cholera comes, this much ridiculed animal may take a position in history higher than the sacred bull of Egypt or the vaccinated calf of Jenner. Harlem, too, will become the center of New York and not an up town annex.—Medical Record.

Public Dinners Are Too Serious.

Dinners are much too serious, particularly for the speakers. In Boston, in the week ending March 18, two men dropped dead at public dinners. One of the feasts thus visited was a Tammany club dinner on St. Patrick's day, and the fatal visitation did not come until 4 o'clock in the morning. That case may have been simply one of exhausted nature, but about the other there was something almost suggestive of a judgment, for it happened at the annual supper of a Women's Christian Temperance union, and the brother who fell was a Presbyterian clergyman who had just arisen to respond to the toast, "The Temperance Outlook."—Harper's Weekly

Dr Oliver Wendell Holmes is trying by a most methodical mode of life to see how much he can prolong his ripening years. Among other things, he never rises in the morning until the temperature of his room is at just the right heat.

A schooner under the command of Captain George M. McClain will leave Gloucester, Mass., about June 1, with a large number of passengers for a cruise to the World's fair.

Put to Flight

—all the peculiar troubles that beset a woman. The only guaranteed remedy for them is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are rundown and overworked; for women expecting to become mothers, and mothers who are nursing and exhausted; at the change from girlhood to womanhood, and later at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and safely builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it even fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What you are sure of, if you use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, is either a perfect and permanent cure for your Catarrh' no matter how bad your case may be, or $500 in cash. The proprietors of the medicine promise to pay you the money, if they can't cure you.
